"GLORIA'S ROMANCE"

Billie Burke today, the famous star of the speaking stage and proclaimed by many theatrical critics America's most charming actress. A wonderful motion picture novel from the pen of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes. Billie Burke plays the part of Gloria Stafford, daughter of a millionaire banker, and she is afforded unusual opportunities to wear some gowns that are talk of the year. These frocks were specially designed for Miss Burke, by Henri Bendel, Lucile and Balmain, known the world over for their unique creations, and are certain to be studied most carefully by all who are interested in fashions of the moment.

FIGHTING INFANTILE PARALYSIS
Depicts the proper treatment of the dread scourge which is now sweeping the country. It shows how a mother in her own home, by the use of bovine acid, an atomizer and cotton batting, may prevent her child from becoming infected; the ravages of the disease, the conditions which cause it and the means adopted by the New York Department of Health to combat its spread. Matinee starts promptly at 2 p. m. Night show starts at 7:45. Two full shows.

TOM CHASED THE COWS

By LEILA ESMOND. 1

Tom Mayben was cultivating the corn when across the expanse of golden brown loam with the shoots of tender green came a terrified scream. He dropped the hoe and ran toward the road from which the sound had come, but all he could see was a long stretch of dusty yellow in both directions and in the near distance four or five herds grazing peacefully along the fence.

Tom turned and saw a girl leaning over the fence toward him, her hands outstretched in supplication. She was pretty and well dressed. Beside her on the ground was a traveling bag.

"What's wrong?" he called. "Is anybody—did anything hurt you?"

"It's—it's those cows," she shivered. "They're coming this way! Oh, do hurry up and do something!"

"Sure! I'll chase 'em! Don't be frightened. They won't hurt you." He picked up a stick and went after the black and white bugaboos peacefully eating the juicy young grass in the fence corners.

The cows turned slowly with eyes of hurt surprise and went quietly back the way they had come through the gap in the fence and into the pasture. There was a twinkle in his eye as he went back to the girl sitting beside the road. Her own eyes were shut and she was breathing quickly.

"Are they gone?" she whispered. "Yes. They won't eat you now."

She flushed angrily and sprang up. "It's just as natural for me to be afraid of cows as it is for you farmers to dodge trolleys and taxis in the city," she retorted. She picked up her bag and brushed at her dress. "I'm hunting Maybens. Will you please tell me where they live?"

"That's our house," answered Tom. "If you give me your bag I'll take you over. Did you see mother's advertisement for summer boarders?"

"Yes." To herself Carolyn Wilson was saying, "I ought to be able to pay expenses here! The people promise well if this one is a sample. I can send in a story every day in the paper."

Carolyn wrote mornings and slept in the afternoons, but after five o'clock, when she made her daily trip to the post office and Tom's work in the fields was done they had many pleasant times together. To Tom it was heaven. To the girl merely pastime. Tom was intelligent, she discovered, and knew a lot of things. In fact, the whole family was entertaining, and Carolyn sent many a humorous quip to her paper accompanied by pen-and-ink sketches, at which she was clever.

One Sunday, as she lay almost asleep in the hammock, Tom picked up a paper from the ground beside her and started to read. Suddenly he flung it down. "That rot is unkind and untrue!" he cried. "Those city chaps think it's funny to write all kinds of things about us here in the country. It's all exaggerated and gives a false impression. One would think that people who work with their hands can't tell brains at all, that we are an ignorant, stupid lot made to be laughed at, when the truth of it is we are doing the real work of the world."

Carolyn sprang to her feet. It was on her tongue to defend what she had done, but Tom, with his blazing eyes and head thrown back, frightened her. And he was right! Her head dropped. "Yes! It is wrong!" she said simply. "Tom," suddenly, "I'm going home tomorrow!"

"Tomorrow! Good heavens!" "Yes, I've some business to attend to and I must go. Will you come to see me sometime, Tom?" very kindly. "Do you ever come to the city?"

"Yes!" he said after a pause. "I do go sometimes and I'll go to see you."

So Carolyn said good-by to the Maybens and Tom.

On Tuesday, she reported at the office, rested and ready for work.

"Where's Stubbs?" she asked. Stubbs was a nickname for the editor-in-chief.

"Not here yet."

"Well, I'll wait inside."

"Someone ahead of you."

"Oh, that's all right. I'll have company."

She opened the door and went in.

There, in the editor's chair, sat Tom Mayben. Carolyn went up close to the desk and looked at him in silence. Tom, too, seemed too paralyzed to speak.

Then the girl's sense of humor triumphed. "Hello!" she giggled.

"What's the joke? I leave you on Monday in blue jeans and boots. I find you on Tuesday in a tailor-made and spats. What's the joke?"

"Joke? There isn't any unless it's for you to explain. What are you doing here?"

"I write for the paper."

"So do I," he said. "Scientific farming stuff. But I'm starting a magazine for myself, so I came to your editor for advice."

"Bravo, Tom," cried Carolyn. "Some day I'm going to beg your forgiveness for something, but not just now. It can wait."

"Yes, it can wait," agreed Tom. "I'm looking for a partner, Carolyn. Would you care for the job?"

"With your magazine you mean, Tom?"

"Yes, and otherwise. How about it?"

"Sh! Here comes Stubbs! I'll think it over and let you know," she nodded encouragingly.

JUST THE THING FOR DIARRHOEA

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhea which lasted over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

SALE OF TIMBER LANDS AND OTHER UNALLOTTED LANDS AND SURFACE OF SEGREGATED COAL AND ASPHALT LANDS BELONGING TO THE CHOCTAW AND CHICKASAW TRIBES, EASTERN OKLAHOMA, BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

There will be offered for sale at public auction at certain railroad points in Eastern Oklahoma, from October 4th, 1916, to October 31, 1916, inclusive, approximately 508,000 acres in Eastern Oklahoma belonging to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations of Indians, including therein approximately 823,500 acres of tribal timber lands with standing pine and hardwood timber thereon; 500 acres of other unallotted lands, and 4,000 acres of the surface of the segregated coal and asphalt lands. The timber lands and the surface of the segregated coal and asphalt lands will be offered for sale for not less than the appraised value. Land and timber will be sold together. The entire estate in the tribal timber lands and other unallotted lands will be sold, except, however, that of the segregated coal and asphalt land area only the surface will be sold, the coal and asphalt therein or thereunder being reserved except where the descriptive circular specifically states that the coal and asphalt will be sold with the surface. No person will be permitted to purchase more than 160 acres classified as agricultural land, nor more than 640 acres classified as grazing land. No limitation is placed on the acreage of timber land which may be purchased by one person. Residence on land not required. Bids may be submitted in person, or by agent with power of attorney, or by mail. Terms of sale of surface of segregated coal and asphalt lands, 25 per cent cash at time of sale, 25 per cent within one year and balance within two years from date of sale. Terms of sale of the tribal timber lands and other unallotted lands, 25 per cent cash at time of sale, and balance in three equal annual installments of 25 per cent each, payable in one, two, and three years respectively from date of sale; the purchasers of any of the above mentioned lands to pay 5 per cent interest per annum on all deferred payments. Bids by mail must be accompanied by certified checks or bank drafts for 25 per cent of amount of bids. Where houses or other valuable improvements are located on the timber lands or on the surface of the segregated coal and asphalt lands, the same will be sold with the timber land or with the surface of the segregated coal and asphalt land as the case may be, at not less than the combined appraised value, said improvements to be paid for in full at time of sale. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

Detailed information including descriptive lists or circulars concerning the lands and in regard to the dates, places, conditions and terms of sale may be obtained from the Superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, Muskogee, Oklahoma. Maps and plats may also be obtained from said Superintendent at a cost of from 25c to 50c each.
